

People's Republic of China: NAL/MII

NAL – Network Access License is regulated by China Ministry of Information Industry (MII) for all types of Telecommunication Network Equipment. For detail of NAL regulations, visit <http://www.siemic.com>.

SOME IMPORTANT QUESTIONS...

● Are documents required in Chinese?	Yes
● Is there a Labeling requirement?	Yes
● Is there any Quality System requirement?	Yes
● Are all types of available telecom interfaces required to be tested?	Yes
● Is a local representative required?	Yes
● Is In-country testing required?	Yes ^{Note}

Note: Generally Testing must be performed at MII designated labs in China. However, Siemic Labs can help to arrange in-site testing at customer premises.

SIEMIC Certification Services provide turn-key solutions...

- Consultancy services for China Approvals, CCC, Telecom, Radio, Security, etc.
- Identify the most suitable local representative in China
- Liaison with Chinese Approval Authorities involved in MII Approval
- Applicability of test specifications and offering Chinese standards
- Translation Services
- Other assistance on the establishment of successful business in China

People's Republic of China: NAL/MII

